

BBC Monitoring Library

Your source for credible, timely open intelligence

BBC Monitoring, in association with the Publishing Technology Group, is delighted to bring you the BBC Monitoring Library (www.bbcmonitoringlibrary.com).

Peerless global intelligence network

The BBC Monitoring Library provides subscribers with open source intelligence from the BBC's unparalleled network. Articles are selected from traditional and new media worldwide, with over one hundred source languages being translated into English to provide a fully searchable digital current affairs resource.

Comprehensive content sourcing, authoritative selection, flexible delivery

More than 3,000 radio, television, press, internet and news agency sources in over 150 countries are monitored to inform the BBC's distinctive, authoritative and reliable reporting of political and economic news. Content is delivered via data feed to the new web platform, where XML-based storage enables greater flexibility in delivery. The database also supports sophisticated discoverability, including multiple filtering options to facilitate users' ability to track emerging stories.

State-of-the-art features for institutional subscribers

The new service offers improved functionality enabling the BBC to serve key libraries and institutions effectively; for example, access control by IP-authentication, management of complex inter-subscriber relationships, social bookmarking and COUNTER-compliant usage statistics.

Licensing and e-commerce

The site benefits from a fully-integrated subscription management system, which supports flexible content licensing, complex customer relationships and multiple currencies.

About BBC Monitoring

BBC Monitoring is one of a complement of information sources drawn on by a number of governments in the conduct of their business. The information feeds policy-making around the world. The information is also used widely by those studying and analysing political and security developments internationally. More generally, BBC Monitoring provides useful context and background material to aid understanding of political events thorough out the world.

For further information about BBC Monitoring, please go to:

www.pcgplus.com

credible timely global open source intelligence
from the BBC